OPENING: EnviroSight

Envirosight officials cut the ribbon on a new 1,500-square-foot annex to the company's Delmont, PA, inspection vehicle assembly and service center. The annex extends both the square footage and the capabilities of the Delmont facility, allowing the company to offer enhanced service throughout the region. The annex consists of a training center, where customers can get hands-on training that covers the latest inspection technologies, software, and techniques, as well as earn NASSCO PACP certification. It also houses administrative offices, where personnel involved in vehicle sales and production can communicate with customers. EnviroSight, based in Randolph, NJ, provides video pipeline inspection solutions.
