The following recalls have been announced:

Oregon Ice Cream Co. is recalling 641 tubs of 3 gallon Denali Bear Claw ice cream because they may contain peanuts. People who have an allergy or severe sensitivity to peanuts run the risk of serious or life-threatening allergic reaction if they eat the ice cream.

The ice cream was distributed in Oregon, Washington, California, Idaho, Nevada, Montana, Arizona and Alaska. The product is sold at ice cream scoop shops and Cash & Carry stores.

No illnesses have been reported to date.

The ice cream was recalled after it was discovered the packaging did not reveal the presence of peanuts.

For questions, call 800-506-4636.

Quong Hop & Co. of South San Francisco, California is voluntarily recalling all "Raquel's" hummus, salads, wraps, sandwiches, and other food items, because they have the potential to be contaminated with Listeria monocytogenes, an organism which can cause serious and sometimes fatal infections in young children, frail or elderly people, and others with weakened immune systems.

"Raquel's" brand products are being voluntarily recalled because Listeria monocytogenes were found in the manufacturing plant. In addition, soy lecithin, an allergen, was used in the production of hummus and is not declared on the label. No illnesses have been reported to date. "Raquel's" is distributed to supermarkets and natural food stores on the West Coast and Midwest.

Consumers who have purchased the recalled products are urged to stop using them and return them to the place of purchase for a full refund. Consumers with questions may contact the company Monday through Friday 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. EDT at 650-553-9900 ext 13.
