

Weyerhaeuser makes great strides toward 2020 sustainability goals

Weyerhaeuser

— Weyerhaeuser Company (NYSE: WY) today announced its sustainability performance and progress for 2011 is available online at www.eyerhaeuser.com/sustainability [1]. The website details Weyerhaeuser's sustainability strategy [2], which supports its vision to deliver superior sustainable solutions for the world. The current strategy builds upon the company's past sustainability performance, with an expanded set of commitments that are further integrated into business planning and processes.

The company's 2020 sustainability commitments and targets are organized under three pillars of sustainability: performance, people and planet. Each of the company's 19 sustainability commitments [3], and the 43 specific targets it intends to achieve by 2020, are described in detail in the Results and Strategy section of the website.

A few of Weyerhaeuser's 2011 sustainability achievements include:

- Employees sustained their track record of safety excellence [4] by maintaining a recordable incident rate of less than one. Seventy five percent of the company's facilities operated injury-free.
- The company developed a plan to measure and report on a comprehensive set of 18 ecosystem services [5] that its forests provide.
- The company launched an inclusive leadership training [6] series for Weyerhaeuser leaders to help them boost skills in building trust, expanding their circles of influence, ensuring equal opportunity for development and growth, and demonstrating commitment to diversity and inclusion.
- The company donated $3.7 million in charitable-giving grants, and 1,364 Weyerhaeuser employees and retirees contributed 21,660 hours to volunteer projects through the company's Making WAVES and iWAVE programs [7].
- The company's Cellulose Fibers business reduced water use by 19 percent [8] compared to 2007, making progress towards its goal of 20 percent by 2012.
- The company reduced its greenhouse gas emissions by 31 percent [9] compared to 2000 levels, making progress towards its long-term goal of 40 percent by 2020.
- As further evidence of Weyerhaeuser's commitment to green-building practices, all five of its homebuilding subsidiaries now offer the [LivingSmart[®] program](#) [10] to homebuyers.
