

California cat sanctuary to reopen following deadly lion attack

Reuters

San Francisco (Reuters) - The California wildlife sanctuary where an African lion attacked and killed a 24-year-old worker this week is set to reopen to the public on Sunday.

The Cat Haven preserve, which has been shut since the attack on Wednesday, will resume regular operations, including offering guided tours to visitors, Cat Haven officials said.

SOURCE [1]

Source URL (retrieved on 02/27/2015 - 3:41am):

<http://www.chem.info/news/2013/03/california-cat-sanctuary-reopen-following-deadly-lion-attack>

Links:

[1] <http://feeds.reuters.com/~r/reuters/environment/~3/YhGjaogS52w/us-usa-lion-attack-idUSBRE92601020130309>