

Catering to Specific Needs without Custom Costs

Lista now offers enhanced industrial workbenches as part of its fully integrated modular system for storage and workspace. The company says that these workbenches feature:

- A durable, modular design that can be easily configured to suit specific needs without custom cost.
- Availability with a choice of sturdy, long-lasting work surfaces, such as butcher block, pressed wood or galvanized steel, for different applications.
- Your choice from several different above-work surface shelves and overhead cabinets.
- The company's Nexus system to support a wide range of shelves, parts bins, lights and electrical accessories, further customizing workbenches.
- Drawer storage cabinets, which come in a variety of widths, to serve as pedestals for workstations.
- Heavy-duty, aesthetically pleasing and practical designs.
- A broad selection of optional dividing and partitioning accessories for the cabinet drawers, allowing users to create customized storage compartments and providing the flexibility to accommodate changing storage requirements.
