

Top Five Chemical Conspiracies

Here at Chem.Info, we come across a lot of chemical-related conspiracies. We've selected five that are as interesting as they are controversial.

1. Chemtrails: Some believe that chemicals sprayed from planes being used by government agencies for weather modification and geoengineering experiments.
2. Flouride: Journalist Christopher Bryson believes that flouride is a protected pollutant, pushed onto the public by various flouride-related industries.
3. Aspartame: The artificial sweetener is blamed by some for the increase in brain tumors and neurological disorders.
4. Monsanto: The world's largest genetically engineered seed company is the subject of numerous conspiracies, one of which suggests that the FDA is allowing Monsanto to sell unsafe foods.
5. Food Irradiation: Alex Jones supports almost every conspiracy ever conceived. Here, amongst the ranting, he appears to believe that food irradiation is used by eugenicists to remove nutritional value from our food.
